

“A History of Bondurant, Iowa” is a StoryMap website created by graduate students in the University of Iowa Department of English course Literature, Culture, and Environment, taught by Eric Gidal. Graduate student Kaden St. Onge designed the StoryMap, incorporating content from other students in the course. Other contributors include: Adelina Pineda Canganelli, Aidan Kendrick, Aileen Tierney, Alexis Williams, Allana Lopez, Cary Stough, Catherine McCourt, David Munn Carstensen, Madelyn Matsubara, Sophia McLaughlin, and Tegan Daly.

This project was completed as part of partnership between the University of Iowa's Initiative for Sustainable Communities (IISC) and the City of Bondurant. The website was created by graduate students in the University of Iowa Department of English course Literature, Culture, and Environment in the Fall 2023 semester. Eric Gidal was the instructor for the course.

Kaden St. Onge designed the StoryMap, and other contributors include: Catherine McCourt, Adelina Pineda Canganelli, Cary Stough, Aidan Kendrick, Tegan Daly, David Munn Carstensen, Allana Lopez, and Alexis Williams.

A very special thanks to the Bondurant Historical Society (BHS) for offering support and guidance throughout the project. In particular, thank you to Deb Harwood and Pam Deardon of the BHS for offering invaluable assistance.
