Our GREEN ENERGY

This is where we live out our values in pursuit of sustainability.

Our commitment to sustainability goes beyond our compostable coffee cups. Look up at the roof of our building and you will see a few of the 99 solar panels installed that help generate our electricity.

We also have a geothermal system that both heats and cools our facility using water from the natural aquifer underground.

Did you know?

Look down into the street to see the paw prints of a cat crossing the road when the concrete of these streets was first poured.

The PRODUCTION GARDENS

This is where we grow the bulk of our food and where volunteers get hands-on experience growing and harvesting.

Production Gardens are one of three types of Convivium gardens, along with Demonstration Gardens and Common Beds. They are where we grow food for our restaurant, catering menu, cooking classes, and the casserole program.

This production garden is called 28th, and while it functions as a production garden, our trials and interesting small scale crops get planted here.

Did you know?

We now grow in over 13,000 sq ft of space, most of which is donated by neighbors and businesses around the North End - like Lezlie's Hair Emporium. Thank you!
